

Reconciliation systems have often been viewed merely as matching engines where as in fact they consist of financial control systems that involve a significantly wider range of functions and serve a higher purpose. An effective reconciliation strategy leads to global enterprise wide reconciliation, procuring a consolidated view across all business lines and reducing operational risk. In addition, new generation reconciliation systems can help better manage your liquidity and cash flow.

Sterci is pleased to invite you to a reconciliation systems conference, where you will learn to

- Improve back office efficiency
- Reduce operational risks
- Better manage your cash liquidity
- Increase automation and Straight Through Processing
